Serravallo's Tonic

(Cinchona and Iron Wine)

From the 5th Medical Department of the Councillor Aulique Prof. Dr. Schuch at the I. R. General Hospital at Vienna.

At the request of the maker, "Serravallo's Tonic" was introduced into this Department by Dr. Stein in order to try its value. To get a comparative measure of the results obtained, the patients were weighed every week, always with regard to the time of their meals, the amount of food eaten and the quantity of faecal matter passed, and measured as to Haemoglobin, according to Fickel, for the Erythrocyte coefficient, according to Thomas-Zeiss, and for the pressure of the blood, according to Beach. The results observed after giving the patients "Serravallo's Tonic" will be seen in the following table:

Age	Illness	Duration of Cure	Weight of body	Weight of clothing	Weight of food	No. of red corpuscles	Pressure of the blood
Profession			on entering	on leaving	on entering	on entering	on entering
B. M., 30 years, Housewife	Anaemia	8 wks	58	58	100%	4,110,000	85 mm
P. J., 19 years, Housewife	Chlorosis	7 wks	47	46	100%	4,000,000	100
P. J., 34 years, Smith	Anaemia	4 wks	61	64	100%	4,000,000	90
H. S., 21 years, Servant girl	Anaemia	5 wks	53	52	100%	1,000,000	—
V. N., 21 years, Accountant	Chlorosis	6 wks	50	43	100%	—	—
H. S., 23 years, Saleswoman	Chlorosis	4 wks	49	51	100%	—	—
H. M., 16 years, Servant	Chlorosis	7 wks	43	47	100%	—	—

From the above figures, it will be seen that the patients show an increase in the quantity of Haemoglobin, in the number of red corpuscles, therefore that the changes which are generally produced by treatment with iron are also produced by giving "Serravallo's Tonic." I must however remark that this mixture was willingly taken by two patients, to whom other iron mixtures had been given, but who could not stand them; that therefore this must be mentioned as an advantage which this mixture has over others; it never caused any disturbance to the stomach. On the contrary, patients suffering from Chlorosis with want of appetite (in consequence of parenchymatous Gastritis) "Serravallo's Tonic" proved itself a very powerful appetizer. The same result was obtained in six other cases with anorexia during convalescence after different illnesses and always had a speedy effect.

The increase of appetite was ascribed by the patients themselves to this mixture, and was most willingly taken on account of its agreeable taste. Therefore "Serravallo's Tonic" is most advisable in cases where the therapeutic use of iron is intended to act as a tonic to the appetite, such as in primary and secondary Anaemia, in slow convalescence and especially for children.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

CLORIFYING YOURSELF.

An Ideal Makeup for Eyelashes

By Alicia Hart

Modern women appreciate beauty preparations which save time, especially if they are amusing to use.

Mustache wax is something new in the way of eyelash makeup. It comes in a tube, in black or brown, and is applied, like mascara, with a tiny brush. It's water and tearproof and stays on for a long time.

Hold a small piece of gauze under your eye while applying. It will keep smudges from getting on the skin under the eyes. And use neither wax nor mascara on the lower lashes. The upper lashes are the ones which you should accentuate.

A rub down with ordinary table salt stimulates circulation and leaves the skin fresh and invigorated. When you have finished your bath, rub your body with salt which has been slightly dampened. When your entire body is covered, get under the shower and rinse off every trace of it.

If your skin is particularly sensitive, don't use too much salt and don't rub it in too hard.

Toilet water as well as perfume is much easier to use if you have an atomizer. You can get large ones which are air-tight for your toilet water or cologne. When you have finished bathing, spray your body.

In a hurry—Have my hat now where is my coat? Am all excited wearing my new red woolen dress! Look at the cute sleeves!

She's in hurry, but this chic model can be depended upon to give her lots of dash! It can be made quite easily in wool crepe, linen or velveteen. Size 10 requires 2 3/8 yards of 36-inch material plus 1-4 yard, contrast, for the collar.

For Afternoon

This is the kind of a frock that one wears and wears. Its flattering diagonal lines and the tiny bit of ruffling are important style notes. Easy to make.

Picture what a stunning model this would be in handkerchief linen, crepe, voile or cotton prints. Size 38 requires 4 5/8 yards of 39 inch material plus 1/4 yard of 1 1/2 inch pleats.

Shoe Comfort

If you want to step lightly through this year, plan to take a little extra care of your feet.

In the first place, do your shoes really fit? Each pair of shoes, including your best dancing pumps, should be purchased with an eye to comfort as well as to beauty. You can buy the loveliest, daintiest shoes on the market without sacrificing comfort if you take a little time and get a salesman who really knows how to fit your feet. Shoes that are too short, too narrow, or, yes, to big, simply ruin your posture as well as your disposition. It may seem a little incongruous, but shoes which are badly fitted do make lines across foreheads and around eyes.

For walking and working, why not get shoes with sensible heels? Though there is no reason in the world why high-heeled shoes can't fit and be comfortable to wear.

Be careful about corns, callouses and bunions. If you do get a small corn, go to a reliable foot doctor right away. He can remove it scientifically, whereas you, yourself, can't.

Never cut corns and don't try to treat bunions unless and until you have been advised by a physician.

Small callouses often can be removed by vigorous rubbing with a rough towel. A foot cream helps too.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

KATHARINE
HAYLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

Pablito, a handsome 17-year-old youth, works at the palatial home of millionaire JIM FIELD. When Field's daughter, ESTELLE, arrives he falls in love with her almost at sight. Pablito knows nothing of his parents—a little Englishman and a servant girl. As a child he ran away from ANGELA, the beautiful old nurse in whose care he was left. Since then he has lived with NORRIS NOYES, wanted by police for a murder years before.

CHAPTER XI

One of the servants, sent to look for Estelle, found her with a tall young man in the costume of a tiorador. Mr. Field, the servant reported, had been hunting for his daughter and wished to see her.

Estelle answered that she would come immediately and the servant turned to go.

"Will I see you again?" she asked Pablito, rising.

"I'll have to go before they unmask," he told her.

She gave him a small gold heart she had found in a hollow orange that had been tossed to her earlier that evening by a magician guarding a particularly fruitful tree.

"Do you say such nice things to everyone as you have said to me?" she asked falteringly.

"I've never said them before and I won't again—until I can say them to you."

"I want you to come back."

"You don't know how much I want to!"

He wondered why she lingered, face raised. And because the sight of that face was so tempting he said quickly, a little unsteadily, "I suppose we shall have to go back now to your party."

She agreed equally unattentively. "Yes, I suppose we must—"

But he did kiss her hands again, one after the other, and then left her. Soon the guests would remove their masks.

He watched her disappear. Clumsily, for one of usually skilful hands, he tied the small heart in the corner of a handkerchief and thrust it in his belt. Doing this, he discovered that his dagger was gone.

He remembered a short, stocky man also in tiorador costume who had brushed against him as he threaded his way through the crowd beside Estelle. Perhaps the jostling had dislodged the dagger with the keen blade. Pablito thought it did not matter much although he would have liked to have it and keep it, remembering that Estelle had held it in her hands. He would rather kiss those hands than any other woman's lips.

The young Emperor of Anam, who was married a week or two ago to Miss Yuen Hu-hao, of Cochinchina.

He walked slowly through the fir trees toward the side entrance, turning now and again with the hungry hope of one more glimpse of her. Then, unrewarded, he left Eden. Outside in the midst of a little group he saw a man with bitterly set lips and a child with one cheek gashed. There were tears on that cheek and on the other, too.

Pablito stopped. With a rush he saw Angela once more and the darkness of the hut. Fear and pain gripped him. The man turned and gave a short order to the child who skulked after him in the manner of a dog used to kicks. Pablito followed, overcome with anger and forgetful of his strength.

The child set up a low wail. The man turned and struck her across the head with a stick.

"Stop!" Pablito ordered loudly, thickly. The man struck again.

The next happened swiftly. There was a flash of motion as Pablito sprang forward. A moment later he looked down at his feet into eyes that were widely open and glassy in the moonlight.

He stopped, laid his hand on a greasy-stiffened shirt and over a heart that was still. He stood erect again, gasping, and looked both ways. The child had scampered away.

Some one was coming, a short, stocky man wearing the costume of a tiorador. This newcomer paused and his shadow fell across the road in the silver of the moonlight. "What's up?" he asked.

"I guess I've killed him—"

Pablito answered.

"Try some water on him before you decide," the tiorador advised. "Is there any water around here?"

Pablito plunged through the fringe of fir trees and the man followed. "Look here—" he began loudly.

Pablito half turned. He knew he had been hit before he lost consciousness.

When he became aware of life again he looked up rather dazedly at a sky twinkling with trillions of stars. Then he became aware of the rocking of a boat.

A girl was bending over him. A moment later she sat back, erect, still looking down at him. "He's coming to, Benú," the girl said.

"Can you run a boat?" Pablito heard a harsh, heavy voice asking.

He heard himself answer, "Yes."

"Well, get busy or go overboard," the heavy voice said next. "You can take your choice. I mean what I say and I'm armed—and you're not. See?"

There was a glint of light on the short revolver that was turned on him. Pablito moved, sick and unsteady from the blow he still felt, toward the engine. Suddenly he knew the boat was Field's fastest motor boat, the "Silver Dart," in which he had taken Field and his daughter riding so often.

He tinkered with the engine which his captor had choked. At last, after a few uncertainly spaced chokes and pulls, it came to life. Pablito turned to find the revolver still levelled on him.

"We got some talkin' to do," said the other man. "Head for Cuba and go there a hellin' see? We'll talk as we move. And if you want to try any funny tricks on me, just try 'em—"

The girl interrupted, "Aw, take that gun offa him. It ain't so easy to talk, Benú, with a gun trained on you. Besides he ain't armed."

She looked at Pablito as she stopped speaking.

"Where'd you put your loot?" the man demanded of Pablito.

"What do you mean?"

"Say, none of that!" The voice became rougher. The eyes narrowed and the lips set in a twisted sneer. "Look here, stranger," the man went on, leaning forward, "you and me and my little pard here all know you pulled off a cold killin' tonight. I can send you up if I wanta. I can make you turn this boat around and head for Key West and then I can turn you over to the police."

"Go ahead."

"Watcha mean? Gettin' funny, ain't you?"

"I meant to give myself up."

"Like hell you did! Say, looka here—whatja lay him out for anyway?"

Pablito explained with fair steadiness as his lips grew dry and his nostrils pinched on the acrid scent of the salt water.

The man listened to Pablito's tale and then laughed suddenly. "You're a queer boro," he commented sneeringly. "Kill a man who'd oughta been killed before he was born—and then you're willin' to do time for it! Is that what you want? I'm soft about kids myself, stranger. I know how you felt. But you need a medal for what you did—not stripes. Don't you know they'd send you up for life—or maybe aving you? You're pretty young for that. All your life, as you might say, aheada you."

Pablito looked down at his twisting hands but did not answer. Suddenly the other man laughed harshly. "Say, Lottie," he said, "ain't this the ghahdamaded? Beggin' a guy to save his own life!"

She nodded slowly.

Pablito shifted. He had suddenly remembered Noyes. Noyes needed him, would probably starve without him. And Noyes, hiding from something or someone, as he, Pablito, must now hide, was waiting for him in Cuba. Pablito felt the smart of tears in his eyes and a growing cramp in his throat.

The man was speaking now more carelessly. "You keep quiet about our gettin' off and we'll say nothin' about meetin' you. See?"

"Yes."

"Decided to live after all, have you?"

"Yes."

"You can work with us. We're goin' to comb the big hotels in Cuba."

Pablito did not answer and the man went on, "Not in your line, huh?"

"No."

"All right. But give us away and we'll send you up for life."

"I won't give you away," Pablito promised.

TRAIN WRECKED

BANDITS KILL TWO RAILWAY GUARDS

Harbin, Apr. 1.

Bandits have torn up a section of Chinese Eastern Railway track and wrecked an eastbound freight train thirty miles west of Kuling, according to reports received to-day.

The band, lying in ambush, fired on the train after it was wrecked, and finally overpowered, disarmed and took prisoner the military guards.

Two of the guards were killed in the fight which followed the crash, when they attempted to drive off the bandits by returning their fire. Many guards and bandits were wounded.

Stop Children's Colds and Croup Without Dosing

Simply Rub this Vaporising Ointment on their Throats and Chests at Bedtime.

Doctors attribute much of the ill-health of adults to the neglected colds of childhood. Yet constant dosing is also bad for children, because it disturbs their delicate digestion.

Thousands of mothers now avoid both dangers by treating the children's colds at the very start with Vicks Vaporub. They simply rub it on at bedtime.

Vicks acts like an old-fashioned poultice and like a modern vapour-lamp as well, because the body heat releases the ingredients as medicated vapours, which are inhaled all night. These loosen the phlegm and clear the head. Most colds yield by morning.

NAVAL TRAINING

CORNFLOWER HANDED OVER TO HONGKONG FORCE

Commodore Frank Elliott, O.B.E., R.N., officially handed H.M.S. Cornflower over to the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Reserve on Saturday morning. The ceremony was most impressive.

Commodore Elliott, who was accompanied by Paymaster Commander F. A. Porter, R.N., was met at the gangway by Lieut-Comdr. F. H. E. Skyrme, R.N., Officer Instructor to the Force, and Lieut-Comdr. H. S. Rouse, the Commanding Officer of the Volunteers. He then inspected the guard of Royal Marines from H.M.S. Cumberland.

The Commodore next proceeded to the Quarter-deck, where Lieut. T. P. K. Kemble had paraded the two watches to the port and starboard, under Lieut. J. Petrie, D.S.C., and Lieut. H. Stock, M.C., respectively, and inspected both watches.

The Colonial Colours were hoisted to music by the Royal Marines band.

Ship's History.

Addressing those present, the Commodore said: Lieut-Comdr. Rouse and Officers and Cadets of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force: I have great pleasure to-day in handing over to you His Majesty's ship Cornflower. She is a ship of nearly 1,200 tons, built in 1916 by Messrs. Barclay and Kierle, armed with two four-inch guns and has completed 18 years of valuable service in His Majesty's Navy. Until 1910 she was employed mine-sweeping in Home waters and Black Sea. Then six years in the Red Sea, relieving the Holyoak in China in 1927.

The Board of Admiralty, realising the necessary and valuable work which is being done by the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force, has obtained Treasury sanction to hand the ship over to the Hongkong Government for the use of this force as a Headquarters and Drill ship.

For statutory reasons the ship cannot be technically regarded as a gift, but the full intention is that the loan shall differ as little as possible from a gift, and that the ship will be the property of the Hongkong Government, together with all her stores and fixtures, until such time as she is no longer required.

Lt-Comdr. Rouse, officers and cadets of the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force, I have great pleasure in handing over to your charge His Majesty's ship Cornflower, and I charge you to guard and keep her in accordance with the highest Naval traditions.

Thanks Expressed.

Following the ceremony Commander E. W. Bush, D.S.C., R.N., the late Captain of H.M.S. Cornflower, on behalf of the Officers and men, handed

MEANING OF YOGA.

INTERESTING LECTURE AT THEOSOPHICAL LODGE

The chair was taken by Mr. W. C. Felshaw, Acting President of the Manuk Lodge of the Theosophical Society, at last Thursday's public meeting of the Lodge, when an outline of the subject of Yoga was given in a very interesting lecture by Mr. C. A. J. Taylor.

The speaker claimed that Yoga explains simply many things which other systems make difficult to understand. The word Yoga, he said, comes from the Sanskrit, and means to "merge into," to "become one with," signifying the joining of God and Man. It states that for a great spiritual experience; but a warning must be given, because while the system offers tremendous power there is a danger that one will be tempted to grasp this power for selfish ends, in which case disaster will inevitably follow.

In the West, orthodox Christians tend to consider Yoga as being a mysterious Eastern system synonymous with "black magic" or "occultism," but if they consider something about it, that there is an underlying truth in Yoga which will satisfy their needs. Actually the word is one which might be used with advantage to describe the underlying spiritual experience of any religion or creed.

Lt-Comdr. Rouse a photograph of the ship and wished the Force all success.

The Commanding Officer, after thanking Comdr. Bush, said that the occasion called for but few words, but a thought he would like to express was conveyed by the verses written by Sir Henry Newbolt on the Centenary of Trafalgar, wherein are outlined the personalities and characters of three of our greatest sailors—Drake, Blake and Nelson.

He makes the first declaim in "God be our reliance
 O hope the Spaniard's gold"
 the second answers
 "When all your gold is reckoned
 There is but this to keep
 To stay the foe from fooling
 To teach the heathen schooling
 To live and die sea-ruling"

but the third gives the pointer with "O Sons of England, Duty is England's morning star
 And Fame's eternal splendour
 Be theirs who well defend her"
 Do we but follow, and we shall earn the respect, and merit the confidence of the Service with which it is our honour to be associated.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation" (Lamentations 5:19).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him? Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my works" (James 2:14, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Apostle James said, 'Show me thy faith without thy works, and I will show thee my faith by my works.' The understanding that Life is God, Spirit, lengthens our days by strengthening our trust in the deathless reality of Life, its almightiness and immortality" (p. 487).

GANGSTER RULE

CORRUPTION BARED IN MARSEILLES

Marseilles, Apr. 1.
 A gun fight, between supposed rival elements in the Marseilles underworld, is one sequel of the arrest of Venture and Sapiro in connection with the investigation of Judge Prince's murder. And another development which has followed their arrest is the exposure of gangster influence in political circles of the city.

Judge Prince, it will be recalled, was murdered allegedly because of his knowledge of the ramifications of the Stavisky fraud, which is believed to involve persons highly placed. Sapiro and Venture were arrested on March 29 and questioned in connection with the murder of Judge Prince. They were subsequently charged on the ground of complicity.

A gunfight in which three men were killed here early this morning, is thought to be indirectly connected with the arrests, which caused excitement in Marseilles. Sapiro and Venture had considerable influence here, not only in the underworld but in municipal affairs.

The shooting occurred in a small bar at 1 a.m. Four young men who were seated at a table fired a fusillade of shots at three others who entered the establishment, killing two of them and a third man, an innocent bystander. The four gunmen then dashed out of the place and escaped.

One of the dead, a Corsican, was clutching a loaded automatic in his pocket, which he had not had time to draw. The only survivor of the three who drew the gang's fire declared to police that he did not know the attackers.

France is shocked at the revelations that Marseilles is tainted by gangster rule—Reuter.

PAPAL DELEGATE

APOSTOLIC APPOINTEE TO CHINA ARRIVES

A high Catholic dignitary has arrived in the Colony in His Excellency Monsignor Mario Zanin, the Archbishop of Rhodes and newly appointed Apostolic Delegate to China.

Monsignor Zanin arrived on Saturday by the Conte Rosso and was met on board by Bishop Valtorta and the Heads of the various Missions in Hongkong. He is staying here for possibly a couple of weeks, visiting Canton, Macao and other centres before proceeding to Shanghai and Peking.

His Excellency is only 44 years of age, and is one of the youngest Apostolic Delegates to occupy that important position, which is one of personal representation of the Holy See with supervision of all Catholic matters in China and Hongkong.

His Excellency was born at Feltré, near Venice, educated at the Theological Institution of that City and in the later stages, at the Theological College at Rome. Amongst other important positions he has held is that of Director of the Apostolic work for Native Clergy, whilst in the Catholic hierarchy he is Archbishop of Rhodes. He has succeeded Mgr. Constantini as Apostolic Delegate to China.

Celebrate Mass.

The Pontifical High Mass at the Catholic Cathedral on Easter Sunday was celebrated by the new Apostolic Delegate in person, with a full muster of Clergy and Seminarians, the former including the Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong, Mgr. Valtorta, and the Rector of the Cathedral, Rev. Fr. Spada. At this service, the members of the Salesian Order, whose founder, the Blessed Don Bosco, was canonised yesterday, were present on their special day of thanksgiving.

The entry of the Apostolic Delegate into the Cathedral for the service was marked by traditional pomp and ceremony. The Boys' Band, trained by the Salesian Fathers at their St. Louis' Industrial School at West Point, played the procession from the Mission House to the entrance into the Cathedral, and there was a full attendance of the Catholic Clergy and members of the different Missions in Hongkong, as well as members of the Catholic Community at the special service subsequently held. At the close, the Apostolic Delegate gave the Papal Blessing. A reception in honour of Mgr.

Zanin is being held to-night at the Cathedral compound.

Canonization of a Saint

The elevation of the Blessed Don Bosco, the revered founder of the great Salesian Order, to the Order of Saints, was to have been held at St. Peter's, at Rome, yesterday, standing out as a special feature in the Easter Sunday celebrations by His Holiness the Pope.

The work of the Order is represented in Hongkong by the St. Louis' Industrial School, which has been maintained for many years at West Point, and where hundreds of poor Chinese lads have been receiving training in vocational trades, and otherwise prepared for their place in the local communal structure.

The elevation of the Blessed Don Bosco to the Order of Saints was decided upon last year after a conclave of Cardinals presided over by the Pope had scrutinized historical records and had satisfied themselves in every way that canonization could be fittingly bestowed.

For the local Salesian Community yesterday was a day of particular significance. A special service followed Solemn Vespers at the Cathedral in the afternoon, when the Te Deum was sung, and Benediction held in thanksgiving for the canonization at St. Peter's of the Blessed Don Bosco, who has now become Saint John Bosco.

Chinese Priests Ordained

With impressive ritual, three young Chinese, Joseph Yip, Paul Lau and Lucas Fung, were inducted into the Catholic priesthood on Saturday morning.

The ceremony of ordination took place at the Cathedral at Caine Road, and occupied the greater part of the morning. Earlier, the three novitiates kept a long vigil; meditation and prayers being followed by their being received at the foot of the altar at a special Mass for that part of the ceremony connected with the "laying of the hands."

The formula has a Biblical origin, when disciples going forth to preach the Word of God, were prepared for their mission by a laying of hands on their head and an invocation of the Divine help. In this wise were the three Chinese novitiates ordained, the officiating clergy being the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Henry Valtorta, Vicar Apostolic of Hongkong and twelve assistant priests, representing in a sense the original Band of Apostles.

Rare event in itself, the ordination of these three Chinese priests was of great interest, in view of the fact that they were amongst the

ARMS CONTROL

EFFORT TO SECURE CO-OPERATION

London, Mar. 31.
It is learned that Great Britain, on behalf of herself and France may soon endeavour to open arms control negotiations with the United States.

The "security talks" between France and Britain have advanced sufficiently to warrant action in a wider sphere and Britain intends to inquire whether President Roosevelt would be willing to accept renunciation of the United States right to remain neutral, in order to save an agreement regulating world armaments.

The conversations between Britain and France are apparently heading, at the present moment, towards a British pledge to France to support economic penalties against any violator of the proposed arms convention.—United Press.

TOKEN PAYMENT

GERMANY'S DEBT TO UNITED STATES

Washington, Mar. 31.
The Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull announced to-day that Germany had agreed to make a token payment of U.S.$1,250,000 on the $50,000,000 Reich debt due to the United States yesterday.

Mr. Hull said that the sum being paid is equal to the interest due yesterday on installments of mixed claims payments, plus the cost of the American army occupation, which had been postponed under the Hoover Memorandum Agreement of 1930.—United Press.

first to have been trained locally.

Said First Mass.

The new priests said their first masses on Easter Sunday. The Rev. Fr. Lucas Fung said his at the Cathedral, the Rev. Fr. Paul Lau appeared at St. Margaret's Church, Happy Valley, and the Rev. Joseph Yip at St. Francis Church, Wanchai.

The Catholic Community will be given an opportunity this evening of meeting the three newly-ordained Priests at a reception to be held at the Cathedral compound, at which the newly arrived Apostolic Delegate to China, Monsignor Mario Zanin, will also be present.

WAR ON POVERTY

At a moment when we are being constantly reminded, by overcrowding and other revelations, of the low standard of living of many of the inhabitants of the Colony it is interesting to note that within a space of forty years the number of people in the London area living below the poverty line has been reduced from 30.7 to 8.7 per cent. That is the net result of comparison of the figures compiled by Charles Booth in 1889 with a survey the details of which have now been published by the London School of Economics. In the sharp reduction of extreme poverty we see the cumulative results of the many measures of social amelioration that have been passed during the last few decades. Were it not for the present heavy incidence of unemployment, the reduction would be still more striking. For, as is pointed out in the survey, it is unemployment more often than insufficiency of wages that is the cause of poverty to-day. Despite the stern ordeal through which England has been passing, in common with the rest of the world, actual privation among the populace stands at an unprecedentedly low figure. Even the so-called hunger-marchers cannot disguise that; indeed, they emphasise it, though quite unwittingly. Still, the framers of the London survey are anxious, and rightly so, that the results of their labours should not engender a spirit of "complacency." Social progress, they emphasise, has not yet reached a point when reformers can afford to slacken their efforts. The conscience of the country is thoroughly alive to the necessity for continued exertions on behalf of the "bottom dog," not by grandmotherly legislation, or by the subsidising of inertia, but by giving every member of the population a fair chance to better his or her position in life. Unfortunately, due to the present world conditions, that is a problem in which further advance must in the meantime be slow. But there is evidence, in the slum clearance and other schemes, of a steady determination to proceed with the task. What is being accomplished at Home provides an excellent example for this Colony.

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE PRESS AND PEACE

The League of Nations recently organised a special press conference at Madrid to consider whether there is any means of combating the spread of false information which may threaten to disturb the peace of the world and good understanding between nations. Thirty-two countries were officially represented as well as thirteen of the great international press agencies like Reuters. There were also present some representatives of such purely national agencies as the Swiss Editorial Association.

FREEDOM OF PRESS

The main points which emerged from the discussions are enshrined in a series of resolutions. The most important of these are those which re-affirm as the two pre-requisites to any progress, the freedom of the press, and access to full and authentic information. The point of the latter is that journalists are often wilfully misled by their informants and then the papers are blamed for publishing false news. The Conference was also dead against all forms of censorship in times of peace.

CORRECTIONS

Another very important principle that was apparently unanimously accepted was that concerned with "the right to correct false news in the international field and in the press should be one of the most effective means of combating the harmful effects of false news which may threaten to disturb the peace of the world and the good understanding between nations." The "right of reply" as the same phrase is better known in English, is one for which many people have frequently sighed when they have seen published what they know to be calumnies against some foreign people. Should this proposal be taken farther and really be accepted as a rule of conduct international news should be considerably purified.

TIME'S JESTS

The revival production in a London theatre recently of "East Lynne," which, to the late Victorians, plumbed the very depths of pathos, provoked twentieth century audiences to almost continuous roars of laughter. This circumstance prompted a popular weekly to inquire what books or authors of repute the lapse of time has succeeded in making absurd. Investigation showed that classic authors of the nineteenth century have stood the test well. Only one book then accepted as serious literature appears to-day to be irredeemably foolish. That is "Eric, Or Little by Little" by Dean Farrar. But single passages from works which still maintain their fame are freely quoted. Few people, for example, seem nowadays able to regard quite seriously "the charm of David Copperfield's little sweetheart, Dora." Nor does the "heroic obedience of the boy who stood upon the burning deck" to-day arouse much serious response. Charlotte Bronte, too, does not altogether escape.

MODERN TASTE

This inquiry establishes two points about contemporary readers. Unlike the educated public of the Victorian age, they have little taste either for sentimentality or melodrama. They display a tendency to be what one calls "realistic" if one approves of it, and "hard-boiled" if one does not. The danger of Victorian literary taste was to see deep feeling everywhere; the danger of modern literary taste appears to be the reluctance to believe in the existence of any deep feeling at all. But the Victorian age did not realise its weakness in this respect, whereas the modern age does. The latter is therefore the better armed.

ROOSEVELT'S FIRST YEAR

By R. J. CRUIKSHANK

AMERICA has come to the end of one of the most crowded and exciting years in her history. When Mr. Roosevelt was inaugurated President, just a year ago, every bank in the country was closed. Fear gripped the people. The old leaders were discredited, the new men were unknown quantities.

Since that morning of crisis, America seems to have lived through ten years of history in a brief 12 months. Old ways of thought have been discarded for new. The objective of a planned national economy has been substituted for the age-old American ideal of individualism.

Industry has been regimented under the N.R.A. codes. The stubborn national resistance to any form of Government relief for the destitute has given place to the most lavish dole system in history.

Instead of the Coolidge policies of cheapsparing economy the Government is deliberately incurring a debt of 10,000,000,000 dollars in order that America may "spend her way to prosperity."

The old cry "Hands off business" has been silenced, and the Administration is now involved in one way or another with virtually every business enterprise in the land.

The farm belt is flooded with Treasury cheques paid in return for the reduction of acreage or the destruction of stock.

All the great onks of the forest are fallen. Prohibition, that seemed unchallengeable, has suddenly vanished. The majestic Republican Party, that seemed unbeatable, is in ruins.

It is doubtful whether any nation in modern times has shown such profound changes in a year. To a resident in this country the psychological difference is even more striking than the material alterations.

To-day America is still beset by troubles, but her attitude to them has completely changed. In 12 months Mr. Roosevelt has swung the spirit of the nation from pessimism to optimism. He has communicated to his people his own courage and cheerfulness.

The anniversary of one of the outstanding events in the story of America will be the occasion for a stocktaking of the many political and financial experiments of the Roosevelt Revolution, as it is called here. There is, however, a number of social effects of the Revolution which are not known on the other side of the Atlantic, but make interesting footnotes to current history.

Take, for example, the effect on popular literature. In the closing months of the Hoover Administration the bookstalls of New York were swarming with the most savage lampoons. A fungoid growth of satire sprang up, attacking authority and tradition in all its forms. With the advent of Roosevelt it vanished, to be succeeded by sober pamphlets on economics.

Just over a year ago the chief stage successes were witty and cruel mockeries of all the things that an older generation had held sacred. "Of Thee I Sing" was a dazzling triumph in the last year of the Hoover regime, but its sequel, "Let 'Em Eat Cake," though just as witty, did poorly in the Roosevelt age.

The mood of the people had changed. It is no longer fashionable to poke fun at the ancestral pieties. Indeed, people have actually been beaten in the streets for venturing to criticise the President.

It is a curious fact that the one current stage hit of a satirical type chastises not the political leaders of to-day but poor Mr. Hoover. He is seen on moving day, and a sharp-tongued Mrs. Hoover is represented demanding to know what they have to show for four years in the White House. The President wanders down to the footlights, and with an indescribably woebegone air says to the audience, "Well, what has anyone else to show for it?" This is invariably received with roars of malicious laughter.

The New Deal has done one thing for the stage that would have shocked Mr. Coolidge. It has recognised that destitute actors have as much claim to Government assistance as destitute bricklayers.

The Civil Works Administration is hiring numerous companies of those impoverished players to give free performances in schools and other buildings. The salaries are around six pounds a week. It is complained that this is poor pay for a Hamlet, but it is better than starving.

It is actually possible at this moment in New York to see a play acted by Government-paid performers, to hear a concert by Government-paid musicians, to inspect pictures painted by Government-supported artists, and to read a newspaper run by the Government for the benefit of destitute writers. That this can be done without arousing walls of anguish from the rugged individualists shows how far America has travelled in the past twelve months.

The Government's influence on the arts is likely to be marked. Unemployed artists in large numbers have been recruited to decorate the new buildings being erected by the Public Works Administration.

During the past three months 2,500 artists have been given employment by the Government, and have produced thousands of works of art. More than a million dollars has been allocated to this work.

"This project will have a lasting effect on the culture and artistic life of this country," stated Mr. Edward Bruce, secretary to the Fine Arts Committee of the Treasury. "American art in future will be less a fad for the rich, and more definitely a factor in the life of the people."

Mr. Roosevelt has also made a great deal of difference to the social life of the country. More than any other man he was responsible for the disappearance of Prohibition, and this has not only brought prosperity to hotels and created a number of legitimate trades to replace illicit ones but has changed the whole flavour and quality of middle-class entertainment.

People who took dinner or supper in dimly-lighted speakeasies were careless about their appearance, but now when they dine out in hotels or restaurants they wear evening clothes to meet the scrutiny of the bright lights. The cities are more cheerful in appearance as a consequence. (Continued on Next Column.)

The Very Idea!

ALL HOT AIR

This is a serious business; wherefore you want you to pull down the corners of your mouths and look all agog; and the agogger you can look the better.

Looking all agog is performed as follows. Standing before a cheap mirror, the cheaper the better, one opens one's mouth to its fullest extent and pops out one's eyeballs as far as they will go, at the same time crinkling up one's forehead until it looks like a corrugated scrubbing board. All ready?

Ladies and gentlemen, ahem!... Do you wonder, ever bother yourselves about the air you breathe?... Of course you don't. You get all stewed up about clean milk and clean bath water, and pure beer, and the situation in Japan and fresh fish, and armaments; and all the time you are gulping down great dollops of putrid atmosphere; atmosphere that is positively rocking with impurities.

And of what does that air consist?

With the object of throwing a lurid light on this great public scandal we have engaged, for one night only, the services of Professor Poopdiddle, that well-known scaremonger, whose revelations will, we are sure, cause you to sprout billions of goose-pimples and make your flesh creep all over the place.

Take, for example, the figures for Shanghai. With what do the Municipal Council of that salubrious city fill their poor starved beings?... Let the facts speak for themselves.

Oxygen 34 parts
Nitrogen 43
Flash-and-chips a trace
Carbon monoxide two traces
Hair oil 3 parts
Ammonia none
Insoluble matter, 1 gill
Gin 7 pints

Compare this with the figures for Hongkong:

Oxygen hardly any
Nitrogen none

Laurel and Hardy a soupcon
Snobbishness 2 parts
Air a trace.

"The flavour of this so-called atmosphere," says the Professor's report, "reminds one of bad eggs and spinnach. When bitten it gives a gritty reaction like chewing sand-paper, and one imperial quart of it was found to contain three tin-tacks, one daddy-long-legs, and a portion of an old boot. None of these foreign bodies has the slightest nutritive value."

And what of Kowloon? It may interest the people of Kowloon to know that even the mainland atmosphere is not above suspicion. The figures shall speak for themselves:

Oxygen 46 parts
Nitrogen 7
Lipstick 18
Bus tickets one
Ronnie-True's

Orchestra 3 parts
Coal Dump Dust 18
Flash-and-chips a trace
"The air or Kowloon" the Professor reports, "is rich in proteins and mineral salts. It is easy to chew, being of the consistency of stickjaw, and but for the presence of the cosmetics mentioned would be almost palatable."

How long are the people of Hongkong going to put with this state of things? How long are they going to have their insides polluted with his fearsome mess?

Confident that our appeal will not fall upon deaf ears, we call upon the ratepayers of Kowloon to REFUSE TO BREATHE, to puff out their cheeks until their eyeballs threaten to pop, and thus to march in procession to Government House and air their grievances. Let their slogan be "BLOW THE BATH WATER. GIVE US AIR."

of the New Deal, and musicians, dressmakers and luxury trades are among those reaping the benefit.

Even wireless programmes have felt the impact of change. Opposition critics have complained that they cannot get a hearing on the various radio networks. The charge that the Government is gagging discussion has been effectively disproved, but it is true that the timidity of the broadcasting companies has often led them to veto attacks on Washington.

The radio is actually more biased than it would be under Government control, for then the several parties in the State could demand representation as their right.

There is a great deal of discussion as to whether the changes in American thoughts and habits introduced by the New Deal are permanent. Opponents of the Administration assert that America is being changed overnight into a collectivist and totalitarian State, and that if the average man knew whether he is being led he would recoil in horror.

At the moment, however, there are no signs in the country that the reaction has begun.

"May we come through, gentlemen? I think this is our car."

FIVE STUDENTS
SUSPENDEDLONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS

The activities of an extremist group of students at the London School of Economics, culminating in the disregard of a warning by the Director (Sir William Beveridge) against the sale of a Communist magazine on the School premises, has led to the suspension of five students.

They were given half an hour in which to leave the School. Tension has been growing since last September, when a group of students with advanced Marxist views gained control of the Students' Union, one of the strongest bodies of its kind in the country. One day this month a number of these students were openly selling copies of the "Student Vanguard"—a Communist journal published monthly—in the corridors of the school.

The following day Sir William Beveridge issued an order that copies of all publications sold on the school premises must be submitted to him first.

In a statement, Sir William said that the February issue of the "Student Vanguard" contained a grossly offensive statement about a member of the staff of the School, and that legal steps were being taken to secure from the publishers and printers of the paper an apology and the withdrawal of the statement.

He added that the students concerned had been excluded from the school, pending a decision by the emergency committee of the Governors.

One statement in the journal deals with a recent series of lectures on Marxism. It says: "The lecturers are not Marxists and they carry out their task of 'disillusioning' students... by shameless distortion and deliberate confusion."

Among the suspended students are the President of the Students' Union and the Chairman of the Student Society.

75 ACTIONS AGAINST
JAPANESELancashire Firm's Success
"But Recovered Nothing"

Mr. Lennox B. Lee, Chairman of the Calico Printers' Association, Limited, addressing the Industrial Co-partnership Association in London, emphasised the menace of Japan in the textile trade.

He said that the Japanese had copied to a very large extent the products of Lancashire. His firm, he said, had brought and won 75 law suits against Japanese representatives on this side, but though they had spent thousands of pounds in litigation they had recovered nothing.

Mrs. A. V. Harvey, who returned to the Colony on Saturday, has reported to the police the loss of a string of 160 pearls with diamond clasp somewhere between the Conte Rosso, from which she disembarked on her arrival in port, Blako Pier and her residence at 622, The Peak, Magazine Gap.

Mrs. Stewart, of St. Paul's Hostel, has reported to the police that at 10.15 a.m. on Saturday some person entered a room on the first floor by means of a door which was left open and stole clothing and jewellery to the value of $121.

Sometime between 9 p.m. on Saturday and 6 a.m. on Sunday, some person cut the glass of a window of 215, Queen's Road Central and extracted a telescope, 23 fountain pens and twelve pencils, to the total value of $53.

MEN THE "WEAKER SEX"LESS RESISTANT TO DISEASE

New York, March 4. A facts and statistics file at Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, shows that the male is the weaker sex. Dr. William J. Mayo, founder of the institution, learned years ago that under some circumstances in some diseases the male of the species is less resistant than the female.

Using this information as a basis, Dr. E. V. Allen and his associates of the clinic have made an especial study of 300,000 cases. According to Dr. Allen the fact is that men are more frequently the victims of diseases of the digestive tract, of the lungs, of the kidneys, the brain, and of functional diseases than women.

Among the reasons for the "inferiority" of men, Dr. Allen cites overwork, alcoholism, "tobacco heart," industrial risks, and irregular habits in sleeping and eating. He adds that virtually every community in America shows that there are more widows than widowers.

The expectation of life (England and Wales), according to the latest available statistics, is as follows: At the age of 21, men 44.34 years, women 47.87; at 30, 44.34 years, women 49.26; at 40, men 39.19, women 41.86; at 50, men 31.36, women 33.69; and at 60, men 14.36, and women 16.22.

PEERS AND JUDGES
"ESSENTIAL TO KEEP UP THEIR DIGNITY"

The cut made by the Economy Act in the salaries of the Judges was referred to in the House of Lords when Lord Rankin moved the second reading of the Judiciary (Safeguarding) Bill.

The Bill, he said, was designed to prevent a repetition of the unhappy events of 1931 and to ensure that no change should be made in the status or salaries of the Judges except by the deliberate act of Parliament.

Lord Carson said he regarded the Bill as a matter of grave necessity. It was absolutely essential to keep up the judges in a state of dignity.

Lord Reading also supported the Bill.

The Lord Chancellor (Lord Sankey) said that having regard to Parliamentary time he could not give any undertaking as to what might happen to the Bill in the House of Commons, but even if it did not progress there the affirmation of its principle in the debate would have gone far to effect the purpose which they all desired.

The Bill was read a second time.

AUSTRALIA BUYS
BRITISHBIG INCREASE IN MOTOR CAR IMPORTS.

Further evidence of Australia's regained purchasing power and of her desire to "Buy British" is contained in the latest official motor car import figures.

Imports of unassembled chassis from England and America last year totalled £1,008,379 compared with £32,107 for the previous year. This total was made up of 7,220 British chassis valued at £642,373 and 4,296 American chassis valued at £366,006. Purchases of British cars are expected to be considerably higher this year. A few years ago, American cars largely dominated the market.

EX-M.P. JOINS
FASCISTS"New Low Level" in The Labour Party

Mr. John Beckett, formerly Socialist M.P. for Gateshead and Packham, has joined the British Union of Fascists.

Explaining the reasons for this step in an article in the current issue of "The Fascist Week," he states:

"In the Parliamentary Labour Party I discovered a new low level. Some would have been decent had it suited their comfort and economic position; those who mattered would have disgusted Tammany and nauseated a cosmopolitan crook. Some sold themselves openly for a 'job.' The majority succumbed to a double whiskey and a condescending nod from a 'real gentleman.'"

Mr. Beckett achieved a certain notoriety in the House of Commons in 1930, when, as a protest against the "framing" of Mr. Penner Brockway, he seized the Mace from the table in front of the Speaker and began to walk with it towards the Bar of the House. He was stopped, the Mace taken from him, and later he was suspended.

Colmar, Mar. 31.

The only man to wear a French military decoration while serving in the German army during the Great War, died here to-day.

His name was Schmartz, and prior to 1914 he had served for five years in the French Foreign Legion, winning several medals for heroic conduct at Madagascar and Tonkin.

Just before the War he crossed the frontier while on leave to see his parents.

The German authorities arrested him and forced him to serve against the French.

His company commander obtained the Emperor's permission for Schmartz to wear his French decorations while facing the Foreign Legion on the Western Front.—Reuter's Special Service.

The immediate release of the detained Soviet citizens is demanded.—United Press.

DR. KAGAWA'S VISIT.

BISHOP HALL REPLIES TO HIS CRITICS

The Bishop of Victoria, Rt. Rev. R. Owen Hall, writes in the current issue of St. Andrew's Church Monthly Magazine as follows:

Dr. Kagawa's visit has faced us Christian folk with some profound problems. Let us not be afraid of them.

Dr. Kagawa openly confessed the wrong of Japan towards China; but challenged both British and Chinese to be equally impartial in examining the actions of their own country.

Dr. Kagawa's second challenge was an economic challenge. Does not the present situation prove that we must either live in armed camps or on a higher ethical plane? The latter may be impossible for us human beings. If so, we have Dr. Norwood's alternative. We can live on a lower physical plane, underground.

Dr. Norwood ridiculed the present situation. Dr. Kagawa showed us a way out—a hard way, refusing to allow the motive of individual profit to control our common life. Dare we British people be so unworthy of our great ancestors as to say it is too hard a way for us to tread?

Dr. Kagawa has indirectly raised the question "What is saintliness?" He has been called "The Saint of the Shingawa Slums," and likened to St. Francis of Assisi. Plainly in his life of devotion to the poor and his complete acceptance of personal poverty for himself he is like St. Francis of Assisi. But St. Francis sits in a stained glass window. This hard-bitten determined little Japanese with his searching mind and defiant faith in his own convictions suggests the boxing ring. "So box I," said St. Paul, "not as one that beatech the air." (St. Paul's word "box" is the Greek "pux" from which our game and the name for it both come). St. Paul and St. Stephen, the two New Testament saints of whom we have most knowledge, certainly were more like Dr. Kagawa than St. Francis. But St. Francis like Dr. Kagawa saw clearly that the Church was trying to serve both God and Mammon. He tried to wean her from her impossible dual allegiance by cutting money out altogether. Dr. Kagawa, like Dr. James Yen, the great Chinese Christian Reformer, makes "The word was made flesh" his text. He takes bread and breaks it in memory of His Lord, saying "We must use money co-operatively."

Then take Dr. Kagawa's answer. It was to me surprising to discover that his answers had the same searching quality about them as our Lord's—though he would say "He that hath ears to hear let him hear." Like our Lord he is not afraid of making people angry. What then is "saintliness?"

On my own account I must say here again that I was entirely in agreement with Dr. Kagawa's position and that I was glad to stand publicly beside him. The paramount issue before our relation through the League of Nations to the other Nations of the World. Either we must recognise that some surrender of national sovereignty to the common will of the whole family of nations is a necessity for life; or we can say that such surrender is a danger to peace. If the latter is our view we must oppose the League of Nations as an impossible and dangerous dream. If the former, we must be willing "to give up" to international police control armaments of any kind which might at any time threaten the security of other members of the family.

England in the time of the early Tudors is a fair parallel. The Barons had previously based their security on their own men-at-arms. The Tudor Kings insisted that the King, and the King alone, would be responsible for their security. The Barons were compelled to surrender their local sovereignty to the Nation. The release of national energy that followed that surrender was phenomenal.

I believe the gradual surrender by the nations of national sovereignty in this matter of armaments would lead to a similar release of creative and constructive energy—enough even to make possible the new world which our eyes—but which at present we deem quite incapable of achieving.

President Roosevelt once warned his fellow countrymen of what he called "Daddyism," the sin of making the world too comfortable for sons. We are sons of great fathers. They were certainly not guilty of "Daddyism." But if we are content merely to enjoy the great fortune they have bequeathed to us, and fail to show their courage and initiative in facing the realities of new situations, we shall, in spite of them, become "Daddyism." I can imagine no worse betrayal of our great heritage.

DIVORCE SUIT HEARD
IN JUDGE'S ROOMCanadian Ex-Minister's Wife To Appeal

Leave was given by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to Mrs. Cora McPherson, of Alberta, Canada, to appeal against a judgment of the Appeal Court of Alberta, which had decided that the divorce proceedings in which her husband, the Hon. O. L. McPherson, then Minister of Public Works in Alberta, was granted a decree nisi, were held in open Court.

Leave was also given to appeal as a poor person.

Mrs. McPherson had contended before the Alberta Appeal Court that the divorce proceedings were conducted in private, and therefore invalid.

Mr. Wilfrid Greene, K.C., for Mrs. McPherson, said that the Judge before whom the divorce petition came conducted the proceedings in its private room.

Counsel suggested that in order to reduce the possibility of publicity the Judge had deliberately withdrawn himself to a place where the public would never dream of going.

Mr. D. N. Pritt, K.C., for the husband, opposed both the petition and the application of Mrs. McPherson to be allowed to appeal as a poor person.

ARMAMENTS UP
SINCE 1913"WORLD OUTPUT NOW
ONE THIRD MORE"

Berlin, Mar. 1.

An impressive array of facts and figures about the international manufacture and sale of arms from 1913 to 1933 is presented in the latest weekly report of the Institute for Economic Research, obviously in support of the German contention that the rest of Europe is threatening the peace of Germany.

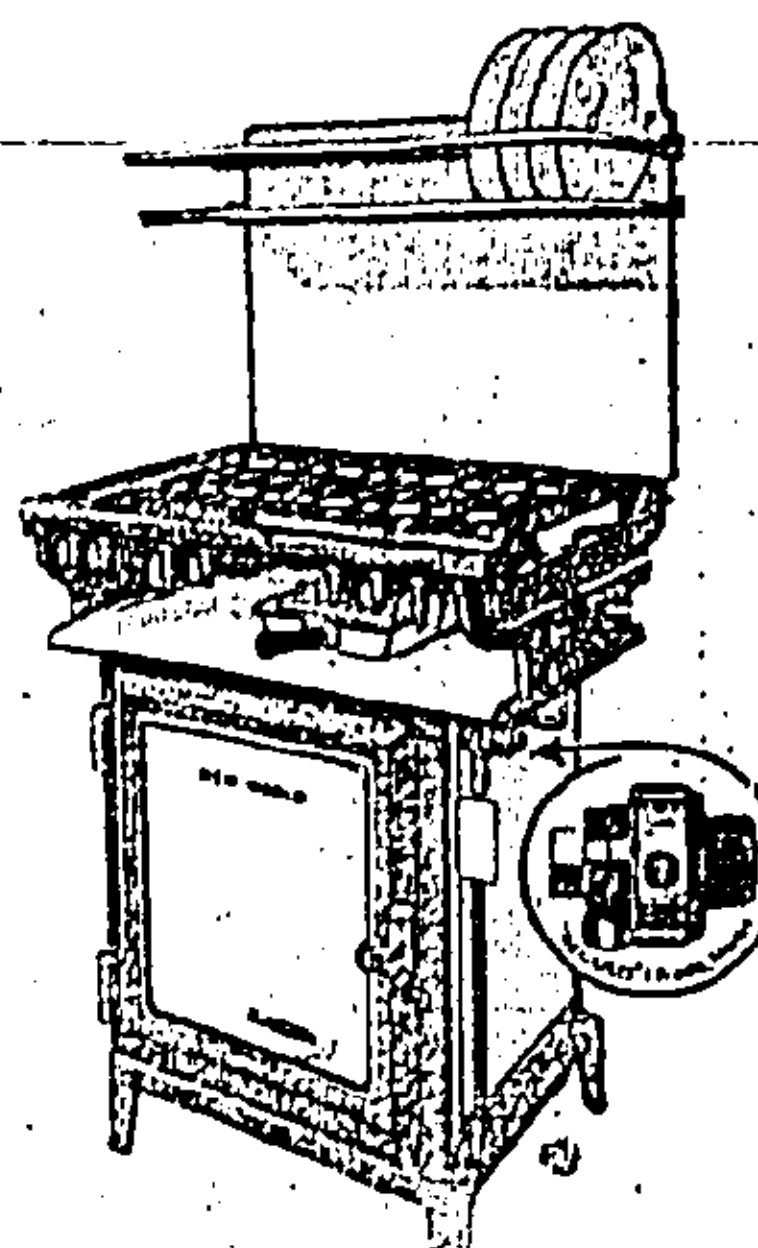

As a result of the disorganisation of the German armaments industry caused by the Treaty of Versailles, between 100,000 and 150,000 German workmen, it is calculated, were obliged to seek another occupation. Many capitalists lost their money and dividends fell or were entirely suspended.

Armament manufacturers in the "new countries," on the other hand, benefited considerably by the enforced stoppage in the German armaments industry.

The conclusion is reached that in the international armaments industry probably more workmen are employed now than in 1913, in spite of the inactivity of German, Austrian, and Hungarian armament manufacturers. And as "rationalisation" of production has increased output, it is estimated that in recent years the world production of war material has increased by a quarter to a third as compared with production in 1913.

This situation is even more serious, the Institute for Economic Research reflects, when one takes into consideration the increase since 1913 in the production of aeroplanes which are potential weapons of war. In France, it is asserted, 85 per cent. of the men employed in aircraft works are engaged in the construction of military aircraft.

LINCOLNS BID GOODBYE TO THE CHAMPIONSHIP

Ernie Strange, he scored four goals.

ONLY a few weeks ago I suggested the first division championship problem would be solved by a process of elimination.

THAT process has started, and with a vengeance.

SATURDAY'S results have, I think, finally killed the hopes of the Lincolns, South China and the Navy.

A pretty rapid piece of elimination.

THE position now is: St. Joseph's lead the way, one point ahead of Lincolns and with two games in hand; Borderers, with one game in hand of the Saints are two points behind. Saints are five points ahead of South China; Borderers are three and have a match in hand. Navy are three points short of the Borderers' total.

TAKING all in all the championship seems to depend on that second meeting between St. Joseph's and the Borderers, unless of course, the Navy get in first and do a Ned Kelly act with the Borderers.

SO far as the 24th are concerned it is chiefly a question of whether they can stand the pace. They have the toughest programme.

KOWLOON may have a big say in affairs. Have you noticed their improved form? Just the team now to upset championship aspirations. Saints have to play them; Saints were lucky to get away with it at the first time of asking. So were the Borderers, if memory serves correctly.

South China Also Practically Out Of Running

ST. JOSEPH'S ON TOP FOR FIRST TIME SINCE DEC. 11

BORDERERS KEEP PACE WITH ANOTHER GREAT WIN

FOOTBALL NOTES BY "VERITAS"

WHEN I left Caroline Hill on Saturday I noticed the South China flag on the top of the new pavilion hung with a dejected air. I ascribed it to the football match which had just been played, but later learnt that South China had been licked by the Club 6-3. Well, the flag had good reason.

THREE defeats in three weeks. And they tell jokes about Chelsea!

THE Chinese had four very good reasons for disliking Ernest Strange. Two were scored in the first half and two in the closing stages.

HOWE signalled his return to the game with a couple of beauties.

WHICH reminds me. Why is it the Club play their best football against South China? It prompts one to study psychology, only that idea of a "bogey team" is easier to assimilate. Anyhow it was a splendid performance. A large hand to the Happy Valleyites!

AND the big men of the game were George Rodger in goal, Wong Wing (in the other), Syd Strange, Gamble (I'm not so sure that Andy Duncan's place in the team is not threatened), Ernest Strange, Howe, Fowler, Leung Wing-chui and Young Shui-yic.

WHY did the Chinese lose? Largely because they ran up against one of the most determined teams met this season. Secondly they did not know how to counter Ernest Strange's quick movements; thirdly the forwards were not sufficiently forceful.

THE Borderers did another Rorke's Drift act against the Police. They are a team of quick results. Incidentally their four goals kept em in the direct line for the championship. It will need St. Joseph's at their best, and the Navy a darn sight better than on Saturday to stop the 24th from the coveted prize.

JONES hasn't missed scoring in any match since his return to the forward line. If he keeps it up to-day, that Sunday Herald charity cup is a good thing for Wales.

INCIDENTALLY the Telegraph was saying "look out for the Borderers" before Christmas. We have no hesitation in repeating the warning.

THE Navy got some bizarre line-up these days. Latest is Purkins at centre-forward. But it wasn't a bad team which faced Kowloon, and I am wondering if the Somersetshire is going to contribute any shining lights.

TONG is the best inside left the Navy have had this season. Which is saying a lot but not too much. His skill in ball manipulation is easy on the eyes, but rough on the opposition. Pity he is not better supported.

HERE'S a bad break for Kowloon. Timberlake and Lewis are going home by the Somersetshire. That means a forward line robbed of much of its brain and skill.

Sensational Last Minute Goal Earns Draw

KOWLOON AND NAVY SHARE HONOURS IN RARE STRUGGLE

(By "Wanderer")

Kowloon 2 Navy 2

A dramatic goal by Lewis, who scored off the post from twenty yards' range in the last three minutes, secured a well-deserved point for Kowloon, whose recent revival was well maintained against a powerful Navy eleven.

The match might be described as an interesting contest between skill and enthusiasm; not that the Navy had the monopoly of skill, or Kowloon of enthusiasm, but speaking in a general way, that was the impression given. The Navy were the better balanced side by a long way and their half-backs were far more thoughtful and constructive than the Kowloon middle line. Nevertheless, Kowloon forced the pace and by sheer determination gave Pepper a far more anxious afternoon than Cord had at the other end.

NO FINISH.

The weakness of the Navy was in their finishing. They attacked chiefly by making use of their thrustful wingers, Skinner and Roberts, but the inside trio, clever enough in the goal area, the weak link being Purkins, who scored a clever goal, but did not inspire as a leader of the attack. Adopting less orthodox tactics, the Kowloon front line several times caught the Navy defence in two minds and secured easy openings, though they only made one of them. Blake netting the opening goal after beating Forrest Later, Elliott had only Pepper to beat and shot straight at the advancing goalkeeper, and, in the second half, five successive shots all scorers were fired in and charged down on the Navy goal-line after Pepper had lost possession in a scrum.

The Navy led at half-time as the result of goals by Roberts, who jumped in when the Kowloon defence got into their only serious muddle, and Purkins, who netted from close-range during a break-away in which the initial burst by Skinner seemed to start from an offside position.

BRIGHT SECOND HALF.

The second half started as though the Navy would overwhelm the opposition, but Everest and Willis again demonstrated their powers at back and so well shielded their goal that Cord was little troubled. The closing twenty minutes were in Kowloon's favour and the line-up was well earned. The best work in the Navy defence was done by West, whose kicking and anticipation at left back were brilliant. He alone seemed untroubled by Kowloon's shock tactics.

G. V. White gave another impressive display at right half-back for Kowloon and Bliss was always in the picture. The forwards played get-there football, no-one taking the eye particularly.

HOME FOOTBALL

TWO GREAT WINS FOR CHELSEA

SCOTTISH CUP SURPRISE

(By "The Pilgrim")

Motherwell failed to extend their League consistency to the Scottish Football Cup and were eliminated in the semi-finals on Saturday by a much improved St. Mirren eleven. The match was at Tynecastle and was won by a margin of two goals.

Rangers netted the only goal of the match against St. Johnstone and thus qualified to meet St. Mirren in the final round, the date of which has not yet been fixed.

Severe leg injuries were sustained by Frame of Manchester United, McLean of Huddersfield and Pearce of Charlton, which may have a serious effect on the two last-named clubs at least.

Portsmouth had two home fixtures during the week-end and failed to collect a single point, even Chelsea taking away a brace.

PENSIONERS GET GOING.

The Pensioners figured in an amazing recovery game at Stamford Bridge when after West Bromwich had netted two goals early on, the Chelsea men went through to score three times in quick succession. Chelsea are now only a point behind Sheffield United and two points behind Birmingham so they have a sporting chance of retaining their First Division status. Mills is proving an admirable substitute for Gallacher at centre-forward and scored two of Saturday's goals. With only a goal average between them Huddersfield and Arsenal still stand at the head of the League and Spurs have now shed the Derby challenge to take third place.

Grimsby, Brentford, and Bolton collected three points each in the Second Division but the lower clubs did not improve themselves. Burnley collected full points in two home engagements and now stand tenth after being in bottom place for a considerable time in mid-season.

Norwich and Cardiff at the top and bottom of the Southern Section remained unchanged except for a slight reduction in Cardiff's chances of pulling out of the rut. Stockport's failure at Hartlepool cost them dear for Chesterfield won both their matches and again four points clear of their rivals.

Rochdale beat Chester 6-0 on Good Friday and followed it up by losing 1-2 to Wrexham—both matches being at Rochdale.

NOT SO GOOD SAINTS WIN BUT NOT LIKE CHAMPIONS

UNATTRACTIVE FOOTBALL AT CAROLINE HILL

(By "Veritas")

In a colourless game, characterised by errors in defence and at attack, St. Joseph's defeated the Lincolns at Caroline Hill on Saturday by two goals to nil, and thus assumed leadership of the senior division for the first time since December 11.

For two teams, one of which has sat on the top rung of the league ladder for several months, and the other, whose claims to the championship honours are with those of the Borderers, the strongest in the division, the match was inexcusably poor.

Based on this showing, a stranger would have been mystified to understand how the teams had assumed such a prominence in the state of local football during the present season. Two sets of forwards who had no idea of where the goal was, and apparently with no great desire to discover it, were chiefly to blame for a cheerless afternoon spent by the onlookers.

The only pull the St. Joseph's attack had over the Lincolns was their more businesslike approach work. They moved the ball with intelligence, which merged into helplessness as they faced the goal.

The Saints should have netted a dozen goals against a none-too-confident defence, but the same old trouble of shifting the responsibility of shooting on to somebody else—stopped them from finding the net until 15 minutes from the close.

WHY SAINTS SCORED.

In midfield the Saints were always on top. The halves kept the vanners well supplied with timely passes along the ground. Bernie Gosano and Ward were continually conspicuous for the manner in which they picked them up and threatened the defence; but as these threats invariably demanded themselves into a friendly sort of "Now if you are not careful we shall score a goal next time," the Lincolns had small cause to worry.

In fact had the backs covered each other better I doubt if St. Joseph's would have scored.

There is no gainsaying that the Saints' attack when on the move is thrustful and interesting to watch. Fernandez is an improvement on the left wing, and Ward and Gosano understand each other so well, that it requires a quick thinking and decisive defence to thwart them. Leonard too plays up well to his colleagues, and Rocha has several neat touches.

If they could shoot with the same facility as they can transfer the ball from the half way line to the penalty area I would name St. Joseph's as this year's champions, right here and now.

As it is..... The half backs played good spilling football, and always slightly faster than the soldiers enjoyed a fair share of the ball. Elms was outstanding, and Beltrac secured a very tight hold up the inside forwards, keeping Malpass extremely quiet and seldom failing to obtain the best of Ridley.

A. V. Gosano again stood out head and shoulders as the best back on the field. He didn't make a single mistake and had the right wing well in subjection. Gomes was reliable, but Marques in goal was not a bit impressive, several times electing to clear with his feet instead of gathering the ball.

AT ODDS AND ENDS.

The Lincolns were thoroughly disorganised. Higgins alone remained imperturbable and cleared brilliantly on two occasions.

Stearns and Roden defended more desperately than with method, and were clearly in error when covering. Stearns was inclined to hug his goal line instead of moving up when his colleagues were on the attack. Roden failed to get wise to Gosano's tricks and was rounded on several occasions.

Apart from Duddley, who worked hard in the pivotal position, the half backs were somewhat unenterprising. Their bustling methods were useful in the penalty area, but they rendered but slight assistance to the attack.

With Dick Ridley suffering an off day, the whole of the forward line were seen at a disadvantage. Ridley was clever in the early stages, but failed to receive support. As the game wore on he lost his touch, and was guilty of poor passing and of missing an open goal. Hocquard was never in the picture; Malpass could make no headway; McGinness was slow and hung back too far. Baldry sent across a good centre now and again, but was fairly well cowed by Elms and Gosano.

The forwards had their chances of scoring, but refused them. Baldry missed a sitter; so did Bernie Gosano and Ward were continually conspicuous for the manner in which they picked them up and threatened the defence; but as these threats invariably demanded themselves into a friendly sort of "Now if you are not careful we shall score a goal next time," the Lincolns had small cause to worry.

When after 55 minutes of fairly futile endeavour, the score sheet was still blank, there was every prospect that a goalless draw would result. Then a clever movement by the Saints' right wing saw Rocha gain possession close in and beat Higgins with a well directed ground shot.

Less than five minutes later Leonard settled the issue with another goal. Nevertheless the referee's whistle was a relief. Football was not up to standard.

MACAO HOCKEY

St. Andrew's Club Visit Cancelled

The St. Andrew's Club visit to Macao to play against the Macao Hockey Club, arranged for to-day, has been cancelled. Cable advice from Lieut. F. da Costa, of the Macao Hockey Club, has been received by Mr. R. H. Wong, Hon. Secretary of St. Andrew's Club, to the effect that the ground is unplayable. The unit state of the ground is due to the constant inclement weather that has prevailed during the holidays.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRE

"Gallant Lady"

In "Gallant Lady" her first picture for 20th Century productions, Ann Harding outdoes all her past performances on the screen in scaling the heights of emotional artistry. This boy who is forced to assign her child for adoption, immediately after its birth. Later, having become a remarkable success as a business woman, she accidentally meets in Paris the child for whom she has never ceased to yearn. Faced with the possibility of being reunited with her boy, she is compelled to decide between keeping silent regarding her real identity as the child's mother in order to be with him, or revealing the facts in order to play fair with the man she loves with the possibility of wrecking the little fellow's future. The role gives Miss Harding ample scope for the exercise of her unique talent for the portrayal of deep and sincere emotion, and the scene in which she makes the decision which affects not only her future but that of her son is fraught with a pathos which has seldom been equalled. An exceptionally fine cast has been chosen by Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck, producers of "Gallant Lady," to support Miss Harding and includes such names as Olive Brook, Otto Kruger, and Tullio Carminati. Each of these male characters provides an element of love interest in the "gallant lady's" life. Brook as a derelict physician who befriends her in a crisis; Tullio Carminati as an Italian nobleman who becomes enamoured of her while she is on a visit to Europe and follows her back to America; and Otto Kruger as the father of her son, well played by the adorable little Dickie Moore. The picture was directed by Gregory La Cava and is released by United Artists.

"Eskimo"

Tales of high adventure as thrilling as the old sagas of the Norse countries are among the adventures of the intrepid polar expedition sent into the Arctic, under the direction of Col. W. S. Van Dyke, to film "Eskimo," epic of the North, which opened last night at the Queen's Theatre. With Van Dyke and his company safely back in Hollywood, details were learned of their eight months' stay in the Far North, frozen in aboard the whaling schooner "Nanuk," which served as home, studio and headquarters of the thirty-five people who made the perilous trip. One of the interesting details of the trip was the filming of the only form of drama these people of the Far North have. As to the temperature, Van Dyke reports that during their stay they faced cold as intense as 65 degrees below zero. The white men could only endure it for a few seconds at a time, but the harder Eskimo faced it unflinchingly. A second unit of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer expedition remained with the "Nanuk" to film whaling thrills later when the ice broke up.

"Mama Loves Papa"

"Make an audience laugh too much and you'll make it tire of you." This warning to prospective comedians comes from Charlie Ruggles, humorous actor who has caused so many laughs during his movie career that he considers himself entitled to give advice on the hows and whys of the subject. Ruggles is co-starred with Mary Boland in "Mama Loves Papa," a comedy of the adventures

Y.M.C.A. FUNCTION

RONNIE TRUE MAKES HIS FAREWELL APPEARANCE

A great ovation was accorded Mr. Ronnie True, leader of the famous Cheero Band, when he made his farewell appearance on Saturday night at the West Lounge of the European Y.M.C.A. The occasion was the combined Y.M.C.A. Ladies and Men's Hockey Club Dance, which, despite opposition from several other Easter attractions of a similar nature, was an unqualified success, and was undoubtedly the best function held in Hongkong during the holidays.

Mr. True is one of the most popular members of the Y.M.C.A., and his work in Hongkong, especially in connection with the Cheero Club, has made him one of the most valued and prominent members of the European section of the Y.

During Saturday's function, Mr. E. F. Sell, Assistant Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., expressed thanks to Mr. True and his co-workers for their services in the past, and said that every member of the Association would join with him in expressing regret at Mr. True's forthcoming departure, and the disbandment of the famous Cheero Band. Mr. Sell wished Mr. True every happiness and success in the future.

Sustained cheering and applause prevented Mr. True from responding for some minutes.

Craigengower Function.

The Craigengower Cricket Club's Annual Married Men's Ball was held in the Clubhouse on Saturday night.

The ball-room was tastefully decorated and supper tables were set on the lawn under a large awning. The programme included several novelty dances. The music was provided by the Brunavick Dance Orchestra, and the catering was handled by Messrs. Lane, Crawford Ltd.

K. C. C. Dance.

About 120 members and friends were present at the Kowloon Cricket Club Easter Eve Dance, held at the Clubhouse on Saturday. An enjoyable evening was spent. The music was provided by "Fred and his Pals" orchestra.

and mismatching couple, which opens on Thursday at the King's Theatre. "Just as all dramas should have comedy relief," he maintains. He points out that all great comedians have followed his precedent. Ed Wynn, Charles Chaplin, Harold Lloyd, Eddie Cantor and others, he said, always provide some method of escape from laughter by the introduction of non-comic sequences. In "Mama Loves Papa" Ruggles is cast as a middle-class business man whose easy acquiescence to the whims of Boland, his wife, gets him into one humorous jam after another. Lilian Tashman, Walter Catlett and George Barber are featured in the cast.

"Sign of the Cross"

The Cecil B. DeMille spectacle drama "The Sign of the Cross" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. He made the greatest spectacle of silent pictures, the memorable "Ten Commandments" and entered the Hollywood lists anew determined to surpass even that achievement. Frederic March as the heroic prefect of old Rome, sacrificing wealth, position, even life for love of a Christian martyr-maid, is said to have the most virile role of his career. Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert and Charles Laughton have the other principal roles. The story was adapted to the screen from the famous play by Wilson Barrett. Its principals are supported by an ensemble of 7,500 extra players, the greatest number used in any production since the days of the silent drama.

"Street Scene"

All the sensational event of a lifetime are crowded in from sunset to sunset in Samuel Goldwyn's latest screen triumph, "Street Scene," which comes to LEE THEATRE on Wednesday and Thursday. Life, death, love and hate are the basis of this epic of a great city, an epic, albeit, which could have happened in any city of America. It is a picturization of the Elmer Rice prize stage play which ran for more than two solid years.

RESOLUTE IN HONGKONG

TENTH SUCCESSIVE WORLD CRUISE

The H.A.L. liner "Resolute" steamed in to her berth at Kowloon yesterday morning on her tenth successive world cruise. The liner sailed from New York on January 13, and when after 187 days at sea she returns to that City she will have visited 29 countries in 38,000 miles.

Special ferries took the 230 passengers to Hongkong as soon as the ship had tied up at 8 a.m. yesterday, and cars then carried them around the island via Magazine Gap and Happy Valley to the Ropulo Bay Hotel, where light refreshments gave a pause to view the Colony's foremost beach. The return trip brought the party to the Hongkong Hotel, where tiffin was served. The afternoon was left free for independent action and most of the tourists took the opportunity to do some shopping in the Chinese quarters.

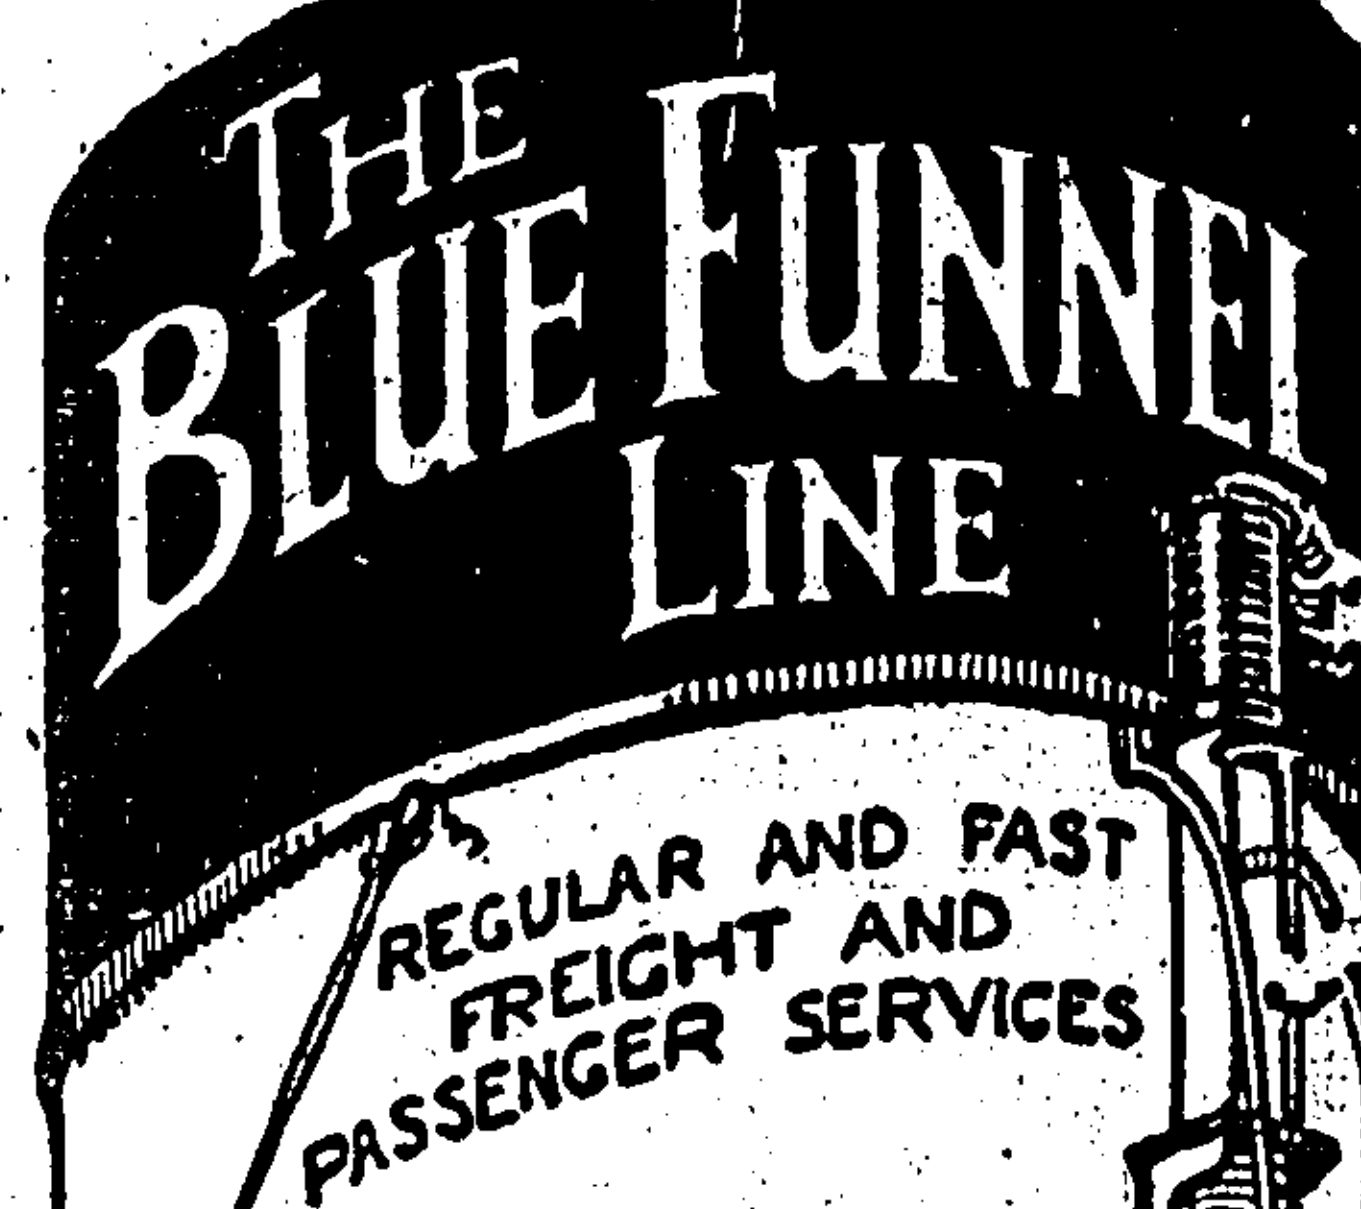

The "Resolute" will leave at 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday and is due at Woosung on Friday morning. One of the most interesting sidelines of the "Resolute" personnel is the football club founded three years ago and composed exclusively of members of the crew. They have a good record and were scheduled to meet the Kowloon Football Club yesterday afternoon.

The "Resolute" Observer news sheet contains a reference to the Swastika, which is now being flown at the bow of the ship and to that strange symbol of the green banner which stands for the O.G.G. (the Order of Globe Trotters).

Twenty-One Nations.

A tabulation according to nationalities of the 252 cruise members aboard reveals the fact that 128 are subjects of the United States, 71 of Germany, 12 of Great Britain, nine of Switzerland, seven of Italy, four of Hungary, three each of Brazil and France, two each of Austria, Cuba, Greece, and Spain, one each of Canada, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Finland, Holland, Poland, Rumania, and the Union of South Africa.

Of this total number, 139, or 55 per cent are of the feminine gender, and 113, or 45, per cent, of the masculine, so that the Cruise family is pretty evenly divided, with the ladies carrying the day. A number of prominent people are travelling on the "Resolute" and the liner had the honour of conveying His Imperial Highness Osman Pasha from Suez to Bombay where he was visiting Princess Niloufer, his cousin, who recently married the son of the Nizam of Hyderabad.

CLEAN FOOTBALL

THE rules state that a lineman may make use of his arms, if he keeps his hands together; if he does this he may legally use the protecting parts of his arms on offense. This rule gives the linemen a great many opportunities for poor sportsmanship. The accompanying sketch shows why. Here the offensive lineman at left is attempting to throw his opponent backward. His hands are joined together, which is intended to mislead the referee, but his arms are NOT close to his body. He has thrown them out and up, catching his opponent under the chin and delivering a blow that can break the defensive lineman's neck. Officials cannot be too strict on this type of play. The penalty of half the distance to the goal line is hardly stiff enough.

WANCHAI CHAPEL FUNCTION

St. Francis' Chapel, Wanchai, was on Easter Sunday the scene of a most devout function when the Rev. Fr. J. Yip, who was ordained a Priest on Holy Saturday, offered his first Holy Mass surrounded by his relatives, friends and a good number of faithful.

The altar of the little Chapel was beautifully decorated and the music for the occasion was very well rendered by the choir of St. Margaret's Church, who kindly offered their services when they knew that music could not be provided by the Rev. Canonian Sisters. Rev. Fr. G. Zilloli, Rector of St. Francis' Chapel, wishes to convey to the organist, Mrs. Sousa, and to the members of the choir his grateful thanks, on behalf of the newly-ordained Priest also. Special thanks are also due to the whole congregation for the beautiful and appropriate gifts presented to Rev. Fr. J. Yip on the occasion.—Contributed.

LOCAL PASSPORT REGULATIONS

NEW ORDINANCE PREPARED

ALIEN CLAUSES

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to regulate the entry and departure of persons into and out of the Colony, to prohibit the entry of undesirable immigrants and to confer various powers in connection therewith.

This Ordinance repeals the Passports Ordinance, 1923, which delegated to the Governor in Council the power of regulating the admission of persons into the Colony and substitutes new provisions enacted by the legislature which are derived mainly, as to Part I, from the Travellers Restriction Ordinance, 1915, which is to be repealed by another Ordinance, and from the Straits Settlements Passengers Restriction Ordinance No. 169 as amended by the Straits Settlements Ordinance No. 1 of 1932, and as to Part II, from the existing Passport Regulations.

NEW PROVISIONS.

New provisions include the following:

Where the holder of a valid passport or travel document is an alien, who has not resided in the Colony for more than one month since his last arrival therein, it shall be lawful for the Inspector General of Police to make an endorsement thereon, without fee, defining a limited period, during which the alien may stay in the Colony.

The holder of a valid passport or travel document which bears

NEW GOLD FIELD RUMOUR

RUSH TO PEG SITES

Johannesburg, Mar. 1. Has a new Rand been discovered on the Transvaal-Orange Free State border? Johannesburg mining circles are excited at the possibility. Last week the majority of the big houses sent experts to the site and some are already seeking options, for which high figures are mentioned.

Though up to the present it is too early to pass a definite opinion, preliminary surveys tend to show that there may be a strike of first magnitude almost equalling the Witwatersrand, for already a seventy mile outcrop has been traced stretching in an arc midway between Parys and Potchefstroom.

Cross trenches reveal a reef 23 inches wide, assaying on an average six penny-weights, which geologists declare shows all the geological sequences of the main upper Witwatersrand series.

The new gold field is believed to run in the form of a huge circle a hundred miles in circumference with Parys on the Vaal river as its axis. A Government surveyor has inspected the whole area and his report is anxiously awaited.

Meanwhile there has been something like a minor gold rush and the pegging of sites along the believed line of the strike.

An endorsement defining a limited period of stay in the Colony shall not remain in the Colony after the period has expired. Provided that the period of his stay may be extended with the consent in writing of the Inspector General of Police, for which consent the Official Signature fee of $5 shall be paid.

VOSSISCHE ZEITUNG CEASES PUBLICATION

Berlin, April 1.
The oldest newspaper in Germany, Vossische Zeitung, founded in 1704, ceased publication to-day on the ground that existing conditions in Germany no longer warranted its existence. Simultaneously, five other newspapers, all published in Hamburg, including the leading trades and shipping journal, founded in 1780, were forced out of existence by financial difficulties.—Reuter's Special Service.

Printed and Published for the Proprietors by FREDERICK PERRY FRANKLIN, at 1 and 3, Wyndham Street in the City of Victoria Hongkong.
